

Academic Misconduct

An Academic Misconduct Policy is detailed in the CTC Catalog and in the Student Handbook. This policy defines common acts of academic misconduct, which have become much more refined than in the pre-digital age of plagiarism and cheating and the processes for reporting these actions.

Below are some resources that you can use to explain academic misconduct to your students:

- Information for both students and faculty. See Avoiding Plagiarism for students and Preventing Plagiarism under Teacher and Tutor Resources (includes handouts).
- Plagiarism.org has resources for students and faculty.
- Citation Resources Tutorial under Video Tutorial Guides at CTC library.
- Resource for maintaining academic integrity
- YouTube videos:
 - How Students Can Avoid Plagiarism
 - Avoiding Academic Dishonesty
 - Academic Integrity for Students
- Although it cites high school students, these hints for faculty apply to all levels: Academic Integrity: Cheat or Be Cheated?
- Another one for faculty: How to Prevent Cheating in Schools

We highly recommend that you require students to complete this academic integrity quiz or a similar activity you prefer and have the students provide you with a picture/screenshot of the results.
